NAHAR has undertaken numerous projects in the Rohingya refugee camp, and it has supported more than 200,000 refugees in the past six years.

So more than 40,000 children are born with CHD every year in Bangladesh. 80% of these babies are born to families living below the poverty line. NAHAR usually provides the costs of a heart operation, which is $1400 per child. Already 50+ CHD surgery were sponsored by NAHAR within the last few years.

"In our society, young girls are in a vulnerable situation, even worse if they are orphans, and utterly cast to the margins if they develop an obstetric fistula. So most of my voluntary activities centre on the improvement of women's health and social status".
